About me

I am a backend Drupal engineer currently situated in Calne, Wiltshire. I first started web development in 2014 when I was 15 – I chose Information Technology in secondary school where my passion started. I would spend evenings playing around with HTML, CSS and Adobe Dreamweaver. From there I have continued with my interest and hobby in Web development by taking Computer Science and Web development in College which I finished in 2017. I then took a year in university for Digital Media, from there I took up my role at Coherence – Passionality working with Drupal and exploring new technologies and working on personal projects in my free time.

Experience

Coherence Digital » June 2018 – September 2022 (4 years)

My role at Coherence Digital started out as an HTML email developer. I would produce fully responsive templates to be used in marketing emails with support for many email clients across devices including Microsoft Outlook 2003+ to Gmail. During this time, I was also doing Quality Assurance. In more recent years I have taken on the role of a Drupal engineer gaining experience with Drupal versions 7, 8 and 9. My role as a backend Drupal engineer includes but is not limited to:

- » Producing and maintaining custom modules & themes for Drupal sites.
- » Upgrading sites from Drupal 8 to Drupal 9
- » Utilising Acquia Site Studio
- » Writing migration scripts
- » Interacting with APIs to import data into the Drupal CMS
